Ms. Campbell stated that the Innovations Conversations would continue, but possibly with individuals now and she would present the findings from those conversations at a future meeting. AGENDA: DISCUSSION and possible action: Update on Project 5000 Kids

PETITIONER: Kelly Henwood, workforce CONNECTIONS Staff

RECOMMENDATION: A framework will be presented regarding Project 5000 Kids. No recommendations are being made at this time.

workforce CONNECTIONS
PEOPLE. PARTNERSHIPS. POSSIBILITIES.

PROJECT 5000 Kids

What is Project 5000 Kids?

This past summer the American Reinvestment and Recovery Act (Stimulus Act) provided funding through the Department of Labor's (DOL) local workforce agency workforce CONNECTIONS to place approximately 1600 youth in work experiences and internships. This was done in partnership with over twenty-one community based organizations that each ran programming and worked with a variety of local employers.

We know that the need for youth career development and employment far exceeds the availability of federal Department of Labor (DOL) dollars. Because of this, workforce CONNECTIONS' Youth Council is leading a community effort to increase these numbers to 5000 youth each year. To do this, we as a community need to look at a variety of ways to create opportunities beyond the limited DOL dollars, and the stringent income eligibility and paperwork requirements of DOL youth programs.

Background: Why is investing in the emerging workforce important?

- During these difficult economic times finding employment for youth is critical. Once the dust settles and the economy and employment goes up, youth ages 14-24 will need to have the right education and skills to be competitive in the work place.
- Cities and Counties have an opportunity not only to address youth employment but also to make an impact on the skills of the emerging labor force.
- Unemployment among youth has far reaching consequences across society and has lasting effects on society and the economy (substance abuse, teen pregnancy, crime, etc)
- Youth employment, especially among minorities is the lowest in 50 years.
- Investing in an emerging workforce to prepare for the growing sectors and jobs is essential.
- Education but also targeted job training in the areas where we anticipate job growth is more important now more than ever.

workforce CONNECTIONS
YOUTH COUNCIL
AGENDA

How do we operationalize the Project 5000 Kids Campaign?

There will need to be multiple levels of approaches to carry out this large of a campaign. Efforts will be needed to secure additional resources from public, private and corporate sectors. This includes the creation of a “pay into” training account where employers can contribute dollars to sponsor youth in subsidized placements.

The levels of services will need to be more expansive than the traditional WIA programs and may include various levels of efforts and resources. This includes intensive WIA services that are eligibility based and more long term in nature, to employer-paid internship opportunities as well as connecting youth with more traditional summer jobs through job fairs and/or job boards.

The messaging for these opportunities will be critical both in terms of resource development and the cultivation of work placement opportunities. A messaging strategy and specific “asks” need to be developed for a variety of stakeholder groups including public sector including city and county governments, corporate sponsors, and small businesses.

Connections to education will be an imperative for those youth who need both job skills, as well as opportunities to earn or make up credit to ensure completion of secondary school. Partnerships with the school districts in the region will need to continue to be developed and will be a key part of the Project 5000 kids.

We estimate that it will cost approximately $2000 in wages alone for a 6-8 week internship. In addition, as we learned this summer, critical factors of success include providing transportation assistance as well as pre-employment training and job retention support to both youth as well as supervisors. This adds approximately another $500 per youth in staff and transportation costs.

There may also be a need to create a payroll service for those employers who don’t have the capacity or ability to take on the associated payroll and workers compensation for employing youth interns.

Key areas of Capacity

We need to determine where the capacity in the community is and who can do what. The following are examples of key infrastructure areas:

- Communications Strategies
- Resource Development
- Employer Outreach
- Youth Outreach
- Job Readiness Preparation and Retention Support
- Supervisor/Employer Support
- Data Collection
- Payroll services

AGENDA: ACTION: Boulder City Contract: No Cost Extension with Governor Reserve

PETITIONER: Tameca Ulmer, workforce CONNECTIONS Staff

RECOMMENDATION: Approve a no cost extension for the Governor's Reserve funded Boulder City ARRA Summer Youth Contract from October 1, 2009 through March 31, 2010.

A request was submitted to the Governor's Workforce Board Budget Committee to permit a no cost extension for the City of Boulder City Governor's Reserve Funds contract. This extension will allow the City of Boulder City to utilize the approximately $70,000 remaining on their current contract for work experiences for older, out of school youth through March 2010. This committee meets on Monday, October 12, 2009.

AGENDA

AGENDA: INFORMATION: Results of Summer ARRA Contract Extensions

PETITIONER: Tameca Ulmer, workforce CONNECTIONS Staff

RECOMMENDATION: None

At the September Youth Council, action was taken to allocate up to an additional $600,000 of ARRA funding, contingent upon availability, for extended work experiences for 18-24 year old Out of School youth as part of the ARRA program through March 2010. Most contract negotiations have been finalized. Staff will provide an update on the results of these negotiations.

Background

Per Training Employment Guidance Letter 14-08 Section 19 Part A – The state of Nevada received a waiver to extend the period of performance for ARRA funding for youth who participate in work experience only.

This waiver allows Recovery Act funds to be used for services for out-of-school youth ages 18 to 24 beyond the summer months who participate in work experience only. Per the waiver, the work readiness indicator is the only indicator of performance for such youth, the same measure that applies to summer youth only participants. The waiver is only applicable for the first six months following the summer of 2009 (i.e., October to March).

Negotiations

workforce CONNECTIONS staff worked with current ARRA summer youth providers who served out of school, older youth during the summer programs to determine ability and interest to extend work experiences beyond summer months for this population.

Contracts are to be extended on a limited basis to continue providing work experiences to a limited number of currently enrolled youth or to additional enrolled youth who meet the wavier criteria.
